Following her graduation, she spent 1 ½ years teaching on a Navajo Reservation in Arizona. She continued taking college courses throughout her life, eventually earning her Master's degree in Education as well. On June 22, 1963, she married the love of her life John Stevenson at the First Baptist Church in Weatherford. Their family began growing in 1965 with the birth of their first daughter Janet. She was gifted in art and especially enjoyed calligraphy, oil painting, and watercolor. She also enjoyed genealogy and was a proud member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. One of her loves was traveling, both to see this country and around the world, but there was no place that she was more excited to see than where she is right now in her forever home at the feet of her Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. Reconnect Families with Lost Insurance Benefits

Many families have experienced the loss of a loved one only to discover later that a life insurance policy existed tucked away in old files, forgotten about or just unknown to the beneficiaries. Life insurance provides a financial lifeline during those most difficult times, but beneficiaries can miss out on the support they need when benefits go unclaimed. The Life Insurance Policy Locator (LIPL) can help in these situations.

The Oklahoma Insurance Department (OID) has helped to connect thousands of Oklahomans with millions in unclaimed life insurance policy benefits since we launched this transformative tool in 2016. I want to share more about the LIPL and how it can help you.

Before we discuss using the tool, I want to stress the importance of life insurance in your financial planning. It may seem difficult to address or discuss, but it can help your loved ones in case something unforeseen happens to you.

When to purchase, what kind of policy to buy, and how much in benefits will depend on you and your situation. You will want to consider how many people rely on you financially and your financial obligations to help you answer those questions. You can find more information about life insurance shopping at oid.ok.gov/life.

So, how does the LIPL work? It's easy, free and secure. First, visit oid.ok.gov/LIPL and click "Get Started." Next, you will submit your request, which requires information from the deceased's death certificate, such as the Social Security number, legal name, date of birth, date of death and the decedent's veteran status. You will also need to indicate your relationship to the deceased. Finally, you will click the submit button and receive a confirmation email. If a policy is found and you are the beneficiary, the life insurance or annuity company will contact you

The success of the LIPL speaks for itself. Since the tool's launch in 2016, OID has helped to connect over 8,000 Oklahomans with over $161 million in unclaimed life insurance policy benefits, with almost 1,500 claiming over $32 million this year alone. The LIPL has significantly impacted the lives of many, and it can do the same for you.

Life insurance can be a lifeline to loved ones in a time of loss. However, many aren't aware that they may be the beneficiary of a life insurance policy or an annuity. If you believe you are a beneficiary, use the free LIPL tool to find out today. If you have any questions about life insurance or need assistance with any other insurance-related questions, please call OID at 800-522-0071 or visit oid.ok.gov.

Beginning Again

"I wish that there were some wonderful place called the Land of Beginning Again, where all our mistakes and all our heartaches and all our selfish grief, could be dropped like a shabby old coat by the door, and never be put on again."

This line from Louise Fletcher's classic poem expresses the feelings of many of us. We all have our regrets from the past year or a period earlier in life.

While we cannot erase the past, and the hurt may still linger, the new year offers a new slate to make a new beginning.

We do not know what 2014 will bring. We all remember the past, when an unexpected phone call, or a bad medical report, turned our world upside down. This could happen again. But we cannot live in fear of what "might happen."

While none of us is immune to the storms of life, we can be assured of God's presence to take us through the storm. As I approach the closure of this venture called life, I'm grateful that there is a time and place prepared for me, when the pain of broken relationships will be no more. God promises that every tear will be wiped away. There will be no "new beginnings" there because time will be no more. But in the meantime there is time, there are bills to pay and kids and grandkids to love and pray over. Life can be rich and rewarding even with the intermittent pain and disappointments.

We live in a society that wants to provide a pill for every pain, and the demands for comfort and pleasure are seen as an entitlement. But the greatest joy can be found in a life of simple obedience. Being faithful to God and his purposes does not exclude suffering, in fact it may bring an increase—just ask those around the world who are being persecuted for their faith. But even those in China who have been imprisoned in intolerable conditions and humiliation, have come out with joy for having been counted worthy of suffering for the sake of Christ. Many House Church pastors see their imprisonment as their "seminary" because their faith was strengthened and they experienced the presence of the Holy.

In several of Paul's letters to the new churches, he often rejoiced with them that their faith was growing and their love for one another was increasing.

So that might be a good place to start as we face this new beginning. "Lord, may my faith increase and my love for people grow." An increase in faith usually does not come through easy, trouble free times, but more often through adversity. We do not like that, but it may be why we are encouraged to "rejoice in all things." We need to see the end from the beginning and rejoice that God is using this time to mold our character to more closely resemble His.

Fanny Crosby, author of many of our favorite hymns, was blind. But she refused to let it make her bitter or unfulfilled. When she was eight years old she wrote the following little poem.

"O what a happy child I am, although I cannot see! I am resolved that in this world contented I will be. How many blessings I enjoy that other people don't! So weep or sigh because I'm blind, I cannot and I won't!"

May your new year be full of a spirit of grace and humility as you live a life of obedience to Him who loves you more than you can imagine.

There are lots of events coming up in early 2025 for Southwestern Oklahoma State University (SWOSU), says Vice President of Marketing and Public Relations Dr. Jonathan Boone Clemmons. These include the "Winter Welcome," the 55th Annual Jazz Festival, the 3rd Annual Anatomage Tournament, and a visit from the Harlem Globetrotters as part of their 2025 World Tour.

The SWOSU Winter Welcome is set to take place on Tuesday, January 21, from 11 am to 2 pm in the Student Union Ballroom. The event advertises itself as a social event with "free goodies and cartoon sketches."

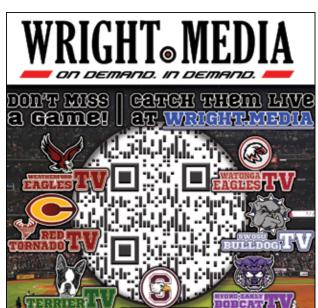

There are limited spots left for the Winter Welcome, and since the event is only a few weeks away, they're filling up fast. Visit SWOSU. CampusLabs.com to register as soon as possible.

The Anatomage Tournament offers teams of students a unique opportunity to test their knowledge of anatomy while engaging with some unique 3D technology, courtesy of U.S. medical equipment manufacturer Anatomage.

"This tournament brings in a ton of high schoolers from all over the state where they're competing on our state-of-the-art tables," said Dr. Boone Clemmons. "That's coming up later this Spring."

SWOSU is also excited to have the Harlem Globetrotters at the Pioneer Event Center this March. This is part of the Globetrotters' 2025 World Tour, presented by Jersey Mike's Subs. Tickets are being sold by Stubwire. They can be purchased online by scanning the QR code above or by clicking here.

ANTHONY MOORE / PHONE BILL - A new bill was filed at the Oklahoma State Capitol proposing removing students' cell phones in the classrooms. Representative Antony Moore shared his thoughts on the bill, concluding that he believes there's still a local control aspect that should be discussed, but that the need for education should be at the forefront for Oklahoma students, rather than the need for cellphones in the classroom.

CLINTON / HOSPITAL VOTE - We're coming closer to what looks like a vote at the ballot box in the city of Clinton this month to decide if the public will allow for the sale of Clinton Regional Hospital to Rural Hospital Solutions. Mayor David Berrong says the proposal would benefit the access to healthcare in Clinton. The election is scheduled for January 14th.

CLINTON / TEACHER ARRESTED - Clinton Public Schools agriculture teacher Rick Dillinger is facing alleged felony embezzlement charges after being arrested. He previously was the AG teacher for the Elk City Public Schools and is accused of embezzlement of a trailer valued at $10,000 allegedly belonging to the Elk City District during his time as an instructor there. Dillinger has posted his bond and is no longer in jail.

WEATHERFORD / TEXAS ROADHOUSE Weatherford Mayor Mike Brown is addressing recent speculation circulating on social media regarding a Texas Roadhouse Restaurant opening in the city. In a statement to Wright Media, Mayor Mike Brown clarified that the rumor is unfounded. "I've heard of several things that could be coming to town. That's not one of them, even though I think Texas Roadhouse would be great out here in Western Oklahoma." Mayor Brown went on to say that if Texas Roadhouse were ever to become part of Weatherford's lineup, he would welcome the establishment with open arms. However, he emphasized that at this time, the rumor simply isn't true.

ELK CITY / EXECUTIVE SESSION - There was significant gossip and speculation in the town of Elk City after the City Council recently held an executive session to address sensitive matters related to personnel decisions, including hiring and firing practices with the City Manager, Tom Ivester. Mayor Cory Speaker clarified the purpose and nature of the discussion, stating "This issue got blown completely out of [proportion]. [On] Facebook, there are people rampantly making their own conclusions instead of finding out the truth." Mayor Speaker also discussed Elk City hiring an Economic Development Coordinator, an HR Division Head, and an Assistant City Manager. He also urged the public to remain engaged and assured them that the council is dedicated to ethical governance.

WEATHERFORD / ROADS COMPLETED

Weatherford is celebrating several key infrastructure road projects completed at the tail-end of 2024, marking significant progress in the city's development. "We made significant strides in infrastructure with the completion of several road projects including Lyle Road and Airport Road," expressed Weatherford Economic Development Director Yolanda Creswell. "Meanwhile, Lawter Road and Hwy 54 are on-track to be completed soon." As Weatherford continues to invest in its infrastructure, the city is poised for sustained growth and prosperity, ensuring a vibrant future for its community.

WEATHERFORD / COMMUNITY CENTER

The construction of a new community center is on the horizon for Weatherford. "In early 2024, we passed a halfpenny sales tax to build a Community Center in partnership with the YMCA," said Weatherford Economic Development Director, Yolanda Creswell. "It's going to be an indooroutdoor Aquatic Center." A public meeting surrounding the building construction is planned in early 2025.

Oklahoma History: How Oklahoma Celebrates the Vietnamese New Year

Tết, short for Tết Nguyên Đán, is the Vietnamese Lunar ost significant celebration in

New Year and the most significant celebration in Vietnamese culture. It marks the arrival of spring and is a time for family reunions, honoring ancestors, and embracing a fresh start. In Oklahoma, home to a thriving Vietnamese-American community, Têt has become a prominent cultural event, reflecting the history and resilience of Vietnamese immigrants and the state's cultural diversity.

Oklahoma's Vietnamese population grew significantly after the Vietnam War. Following the fall of Saigon in 1975, thousands of Vietnamese refugees fled their homeland, seeking safety and a new life. Oklahoma became a welcoming destination due to its affordable living costs and robust resettlement programs. Many families settled in Oklahoma City, forming what is now one of the largest Vietnamese-American communities in the United States.

As of 2020, over 20,000 Oklahomans of Vietnamese descent lived in the state, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. Most are concentrated in Oklahoma City and Tulsa, with the Asian District in Oklahoma City serving as the cultural and social hub. Têt has become a cornerstone of the community, preserving traditions and fostering unity.

Têt marks the first day of the Lunar New Year, typically falling between late January and mid-February. It is a time of renewal, reflection, and celebration. Families clean their homes to dispel bad luck, honor their ancestors with offerings, and share special meals that symbolize good fortune and prosperity. 2025 is the Year of the Wood Snake, said to be a time of introspection and growth.

The holiday also emphasizes family and community. It is a time for reconnecting, sharing traditions, and setting intentions for the year ahead.

Its celebrations in Oklahoma blend traditional customs with local community vibrancy. The Asian District in Oklahoma City hosts many of the festivities, including events at Vietnamese Buddhist temples and community centers. These gatherings feature cultural performances, traditional ceremonies, and food, drawing thousands of attendees annually.

Lion dances, accompanied by the rhythmic sounds of drums and cymbals, are a key part of the celebration. These performances are believed to chase away evil spirits and bring good fortune. Traditional foods are another highlight, with dishes such as bánh chung (square sticky rice cakes filled with pork and mung beans) and thit kho (braised pork belly with eggs) served at family gatherings. Each dish carries symbolic meaning: bánh chung represents the Earth, while thit kho symbolizes unity and harmony.

In addition to food and dance, Têt fairs often include games, calligraphy demonstrations, and cultural exhibits. Younger generations contribute through modern performances, blending traditional and contemporary elements to showcase their heritage while adapting to life in Oklahoma.

Tết in Oklahoma serves as both a cultural celebration and a bridge between communities. It welcomes individuals from all backgrounds, offering opportunities to learn about Vietnamese traditions and their significance. Events are designed to share the richness of the culture, fostering understanding and connection.

In 2023, the Oklahoma Legislature formally recognized Têt as a cultural celebration, highlighting its role in promoting diversity and inclusion. This recognition underscores the importance of the Vietnamese community's contributions to the state's identity.

The OKC Thunder NBA team observes and honors the state's cultural heritage and is a regular host of theme nights to promote inclusivity. In 2025, on February 12th, they'll have their annual Lunar New Year Celebration against the Miami Heat, partnering with the Greater OKC Asian Chamber of Commerce.

Other places to celebrate include the Myriad Botanical Gardens on January 25th, the Dove Event Center (TBA), The Riverwind Casino on January 26th, and the Asian District. Keep an eye on announcements on Explore OKC to see community events, many Lunar celebrations feature face painting, performances, and tremendous cultural food.

Whether through a plate of bánh chưng, a lion dance performance, or a Vietnamese calligraphy display, Tết in Oklahoma represents a rich blend of tradition, community, and hope for a prosperous year ahead
