Coronavirus vs. Economy

Chase Wright
Staff Writer

Oklahoma counties are in a state of limbo as multiple counties with active Coronavirus cases have closed non-essential businesses for 21 days. Schools have moved to online and at home work, in order to maintain progression for students.

“Non-essential” vs “Essential” business labels have been set by the Cyber Security and Infrastructure Security Agency. Their exhaustive lists can be found on their website, and their lists have acted as guidelines for many state and local leaders around the country.

The generic set-up is that people working in these fields are instrumental in maintaining the economy's infrastructure: Healthcare, Law Enforcement, Energy, Waste/Water, Food/Agriculture, Transportation, Critical Manufacturing, Communications, Chemical, Government Operations, Finance, and Distribution.

Are these guidelines going to be an effective solution to stave the spread of the virus? Yes. The idea with this widespread slowdown of the economy is to the virus's reach while “flattening the curve,” a term thrown around a lot, but what does it mean?

According to the epidemic statistics regarding COVID-19's ability to spread, people who contract the virus have a certain amount of time until they no longer transmit it. If no policies are in place to prevent their transmission radius, they're likely to infect a good amount of the people they encounter.

Imagine an area with 100 people. Eventually, all 100 would contract the virus with a sharp rise in cases. Then, as time went on, they'd get over it with a sharp decrease Weatherford Middle School is providing Free Grab & Go lunches to all children 18 and under. This program runs Monday-Friday and would not be possible without the help of the staff at WPS. Over 4,500 sack breakfasts and lunches were provided to the community last week. The goal is to make sure no child goes hungry and to provide a sense of normalcy in these uncertain times. WPS would like to thank United Supermarkets and Pecina's Mexican Cafe for their generous donations.

CLINTON SCHOOL BOARD – NEW SUPERINTENDENT- The Clinton School Board of Education named Tyler Bridges as the new superintendent of schools. Bridges says he looks forward to the future and will seek feedback on the recent bond issue that failed at the ballot box that would have provided funds to upgrade classrooms in the district. Bridges succeeds Kevin Hime who accepted the superintendent position at Lawton Public Schools.

CUSTER COUNTY- CORONAVIRUS UPDATE- Custer County Commissioners, in response to the safer at home program as outlined by Governor Kevin Stitt, adopted a resolution during an emergency meeting, regarding operations at the county courthouse. Access to county facilities will be restricted to employees of Custer County unless prior authorization has been submitted, such as court cases. County officials say any business the public needs to contact at the courthouse should be done by mail, email, or by telephone. There have been 166 positive cases of Covid-19 in the state, with 3 positive cases in Custer County.

U.S. DISTRICT COURT – VARNELL SENTENCING- A Sayre man has been sentenced in U.S. District Court to serve 25 years prison for attempting to use a weapon of mass destruction at Bancfirst in downtown Oklahoma City. Twenty-six-year-old Jerry Drake Varnell was convicted by a Federal Jury in February 2019. Varnell was arrested in August 2017, after he attempted to detonate what he believed to be an explosives-laden van he had parked in an alley next to Bancfirst in Oklahoma City.

Aska, Tramble Earn All-OSN Selections

Doug Self
SWOSU Sports Information Director

Lady Bulldog standouts Tyra Aska and Makyra Tramble have earned a spot on the 2020 All-OklahomaSports.Net basketball teams, which were released on Tuesday. Aska earns a First Team All-OSN selection while Tramble claimed a spot on the Second Team.

2020 All-OklahomaSports.Net Teams
Aska earns her second straight All-OSN honor following a senior season in which she was previously named Second Team All-Central Region by the Division II Conference Commissioner's Association (D2CCA) and First Team All-Great American Conference for the second straight season. As a four-year starter at SWOSU, Aska graduates as the Lady Bulldogs' fifth all-time leading scorer and second in program history for career steals and career assists.

Tramble had a magnificent freshman season that ended with her being chosen as the Great American Conference Freshman of the Year and a Second Team All-GAC selection. She led the Lady Bulldogs in scoring (15.8 ppg) and rebounding (7.9 rpg) this season while recording a team-leading nine double-doubles. Tramble also hit led SWOSU with 64 three-point field goals and recorded 68 steals, 66 assists and 28 blocked shots.

"The Coin Guy"

Gold Coin Sold 2,640 Times its Original Face Value

Clark, Gruber and Company assayed gold in Denver, Colorado. Their firm minted $10 gold eagles from 1860 to 1861. These gold coins are very distinctive in their designs.

The obverse of the $10 gold eagles depicts "Pikes Peak" meaning the gold came from this mountain. The dies were made in Philadelphia by engravers who had no idea what Pikes Peak actually looked like. People made so much fun of the design the firm changed it to the well-known Liberty Head motif of the U.S. Mint. Today's collectors like the original mountain instead.

The above pictured coin was certified by the Numismatic Guaranty Corporation (NGC) as About Uncirculated 58. It sold on February 27, 2020 in Atlanta, Georgia for $26,400.

Do you have questions about coins but don't know who to ask? Call The Coin Guy at 580-890-8076 so we can meet and discuss them. Thanks for reading.

to cases until they were all cured or gone.

Now, if you have the same system of 100 people, but this time half of them stay still and away from others, then positive cases would rise slowly to a threshold and gradually decrease. Which results in less cases over a longer window.

Finally, if all but a few of those 100 people stay still and secluded, the one's who've contracted the virus, whether they first be at home or on the move, will have less opportunity to infect the others. This would result in the lowest rise of cases over a given period of time.

The closer we can get to this last level of seclusion the better for our healthcare workers as cases would be reduced and spread out. This would allow them to treat the patients without a shortage of equipment.

While this 3-week closure may seem extensive with key businesses remaining available, the economic impact should be greatly reduced compared to a mass contraction of the virus across the country.

Experts in the economic/financial fields have hopes that global turn-around of the world's economy will be quick as China's factories become operational and other countries come out of their social distancing policies. For most of the world, the working age group of people are some of the least effected by the virus.

Multiple drugs/serums/vaccines are being tested in labs around the world. So, as this year moves forward, each day brings us closer to beating this outbreak. We just need to be smart, practice good hygiene, and do our best with the policies we're given.

Together we'll get through this and together we'll bounce back.

Saluja Wins Bernhardt Award at SWOSU

Dr. Hardeep Singh Saluja, associate professor of pharmaceutical sciences in the College of Pharmacy at Southwestern Oklahoma State University, is the winner of the Bernhardt Academic Excellence Award for 2020 at SWOSU.

Saluja, who is also coordinator of the PharmD/MBA dual degree program, was presented the prestigious award at the annual Bernhardt banquet held recently on the Weatherford campus, and he received a $5,000 cash award, clock, pen and medallion.

SWOSU alumni Dr. William and Theta Juan Bernhardt of Midwest City are sponsors of the annual award that goes to an outstanding faculty member who exhibits exceptional achievement in teaching, scholarship and service.

Dr. Hardeep Singh Saluja was born in India and moved to the United States in 2004 to pursue higher studies. He has a Ph.D. from Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Health Sciences in Boston. He worked at Harvard University for his master's research project and earned his B.S. in pharmacy from C.C.S. University in India. After he came to Weatherford in 2010, he earned an MBA from SWOSU.

In addition to teaching his College of Pharmacy courses—Pharmaceutics, Biopharmaceutics and Pharmacokinetics—Saluja also teaches SWOSU Connect. He is very passionate about his profession and always looks for innovative and creative methods of teaching. Saluja seeks to engage his students by employing various active learning techniques in an effort to help students develop and practice critical thinking skills and become lifelong learners.

Saluja has incorporated laboratory experiences to first year pharmacy students in his Pharmaceutics course in order to give students an opportunity to perform various pharmaceutical tests on different brands of common over the counter medications. Completing these tests, allows students to apply their knowledge and gain hands on experience, which in turn, helps students to develop deeper understanding on various drug products employed in the patient care.

Saluja is also very active in the Indian and Sikh communities. He has been invited to various departments at SWOSU, universities and churches to present on Sikh belief and practices. He is an active member of Weatherford Rotary Club. In his free time, he enjoys cooking, exercise, gardening and spending time with his family.

Regional Food Bank to Shut Down Volunteer Opportunities to Public, Continue Distributing Food to Partner Agencies Across Oklahoma

In an abundance of caution and in compliance with orders from state and local officials, the Regional Food Bank of Oklahoma will close its volunteer opportunities to the public, effective Wednesday, March 25, until further notice.

"We appreciate the leadership of both Gov. Stitt and Mayor Holt on taking measures to keep at-risk populations as safe as possible while still allowing us to serve the one in six Oklahomans facing hunger as well as those impacted by the shutdowns," said Deb Bunting, interim CEO of the Regional Food Bank. "We thank everyone who has volunteered since the COVID-19 pandemic reached our state and want to assure all that the safety of volunteers, staff and the fellow Oklahomans we serve is a top priority."

In place of volunteers, the Regional Food Bank staff will work shifts to continue to prepare emergency food boxes to be distributed to community-based partner agencies in central and western Oklahoma. The staff will continue to operate under the new volunteer model that adheres to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's social distancing guidelines. The Regional Food Bank continues to operate in Disaster Response mode as it works to provide food assistance to Oklahomans who are food insecure and the increasing number of Oklahomans impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

"It is the very mission of the Regional Food Bank to provide food assistance where needed in our service area and that's what we'll continue to do," Bunting said. "Challenging times such as these require us to be innovative and make the most of our resources and that's what we are doing."

The Regional Food Bank's partner agencies report a nearly 25% increase in the number of people they are serving this week. The Food & Resource Center in Moore served 130 households on Monday and more than 30 families were visiting for the first time.

"We can't thank our partner agencies enough for serving on the frontlines to fight hunger each and every day and now helping to meet the additional need as a result of the COVID-19 impact," Bunting said. "Our work would truly not be possible without these valued partners."

Anyone in need of food assistance should visit rfo.org/get-help to find a pantry closest to their home. It is recommended to first call the pantry to confirm hours of operations and if any restrictions are in place. They can also call the Regional Food Bank at 405-972-1111 during workdays.

Higher Ground

An Assignment

Jim Morrison

"Lord, you have an assignment for me today. Give me eyes to see and faith to believe that you can use me. May I not let fear or other supposed hindrances defeat your plan for me."

This prayer hangs in a frame on the wall just above my computer. I don't know the author, but for me it captures the mission I have as a follower of Jesus. It says in effect, "Jim you are not free to follow your own desires, you belong to me." It is poor English, but true nonetheless that, "I've been died for." The assignment may be to "plant corn," if you are a farmer. If a pharmacist, it may be to have a greater concern about the health of those you serve than the financial reward you receive. The apostle Paul wrote to the new Christians in Colossae, "And whatever you do, whether in word or deed, do it all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him." Col. 3:17

One of my favorite quotes is from the late Elton Trueblood, Quaker philosopher/theologian. He is quoted in The Best of Elton Trueblood, An Anthology; "A Christian is a person who confesses that, amidst the manifold and confusing voices heard in the world, there is one Voice which supremely wins his full assent, uniting all his powers, intellectual and emotional, into a single pattern of self-giving. That Voice is Jesus Christ. A Christian not only believes that He was; he believes in Him with all his heart and strength and mind."

While we may struggle to know the assignment God has called us to fulfill, often the greater problem is having the faith to believe that God can use us. We may not question the power of God, but too often we see ourselves as "grasshoppers" unable to defeat the giants in our life. The risk is too great, so we play it safe; we count the cost and decide it's not worth it.

We fear being misunderstood or being perceived as being "radical or too spiritual." This is not to say that we should not pray urgently or seek godly counsel but we must listen primarily to that One Voice who speaks with power and assurance.

This week I visited via email with a former BCM student, a graduate of SWOSU, who left a comfortable position as student pastor in a church in Louisiana, and together with his wife, two small children, and a small group traveled to the Brooklyn section of New York City to plant a new church. They had just begun to build momentum when the virus hit. Now they are hunkered down waiting for the next step. Pray for Greg Gober and his wife Tamra, that they will be safe as they try to be creative in ministry.

We urgently need to pray that as the weather warms the virus will lose its power. Pray for the health care workers who put their lives at risk to care for those involved. Pray for those in positions of authority that they will have wisdom and insight to make careful and good decisions. Then pray for all the public school students, and collegians who will be cheated out of their last semester of school with all its memory making events. God loves us and knows all about this. May revival and heart change be released by the power of the Holy Spirit. To comment: jhm82@outlook.com

Southwest Intermediary Finance Team & SWOSU Honored for Partnership

Southwest Intermediary Finance Team, Inc. (SWIFT), was among 27 business and higher education partnerships throughout Oklahoma that were recently recognized as innovative collaborations that further the education of Oklahoma's workforce.

Southwestern Oklahoma State University and SWIFT officials attended the Edmond luncheon to honor the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education's (OSRHE) Business Partnership Excellence Award winners.

SWIFT is a private, not-for-profit U.S. Department of Agriculture lending intermediary. SWIFT's impact has benefitted SWOSU and the 14 counties it serves in southwest Oklahoma, according to Doug Misak, director of the SWOSU Business Enterprise Center.

One of the results of SWIFT's work is Dr. Trey Thomason. After completing medical school, Thomason returned to his hometown, Hinton, to establish his practice with the benefit from a SWIFT grant. With the nearest hospital 22 miles away, this clinic provides access to essential health care that some rural patients otherwise would not receive.

SWIFT is housed at the Timothy T. Day Business Enterprise Center on the SWOSU campus. SWOSU President Randy Beutler serves on the SWIFT board and former SWOSU President John Hays is the SWIFT board chairman. SWIFT borrowers benefit not only from the financing they receive for their businesses but also from expert technical assistance provided by the organization. SWIFT has had a positive impact on the economy of southwest Oklahoma, contributing to nearly $17 million in earnings and the creation of 319 jobs.

Misak said the university is proud to collaborate with SWIFT in strengthening the state's workforce.

The Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education's Regents Business Partnership Excellence Award is designed to highlight successful partnerships between higher education institutions and businesses and to further cultivate the higher learning environment through State Regents' Economic Development Grants.

Institutions involved in these partnerships provide $500 for tuition waivers to employees of the partnering businesses; internships that enable current students to work at the partnering businesses; faculty externships with the partnering businesses; and/or enhancement of the partnerships with additional equipment, materials or supplies. The State Regents provide a $500 match to the waivers.

SWOSU Donates Needed Masks to Hospitals

Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford recently donated a large number of protective masks to area hospitals for health care workers.

SWOSU had a large supply on hand, and President Randy Beutler felt the university could donate part of the supply to assist area hospitals, which have dwindling supplies and shortages.

"SWOSU has a large number of health-related disciplines so we fortunately have a large supply that we typically use in our lab areas," Beutler said. "The hospitals work with so many of our students, and we felt it was appropriate to help our medical friends in western Oklahoma."

With the university moving to virtual learning for the rest of the spring semester, students will not be on campus and not using these supplies.

Beutler personally delivered the masks on March 23-24.
