THE RACE – THE FORUM – THE VOTE

The races for Custer County Sheriff and Custer County Commissioner have been going on for many weeks, now. Time is coming for the vote to elect the next Sheriff and Commissioner. June 30, 2020, is the primary election day. Wright Broadcasting is sponsoring a Forum to help you decide which candidates are worthy of your votes.

On Wednesday, June 24, at 6:00 PM, Wright Wradio stations KWEY FM 95.5 and KCLI FM 99.3 will air the forum, plus Coyote TV will live stream the forum at Wrightmedia.com. The forum will be moderated by Wright Wradio's own Todd Brunner and Mike Smith, both experienced and excellent broadcasters for the stations.

In this particular primary, the majority winner will be the next sheriff and commissioner because there will not be a general election in these races. No Democrat filed for either position. In the case of the commissioner's position, there could possibly be another run-off election if one candidate does not receive the majority of votes. In that case, the two top vote-getters will be in the run-off on August 25.

Dan Day and Kenneth Tidwell, both Clinton residents, are vying for the Custer County Sheriff's position.

Chuck Frantz, Bruce Walker and Carl Bailey are all three candidates for the Custer County Commissioner race. This position is the post for which Kurt Hamburger has currently been serving.

Stay informed and listen to the forum. If you do not vote, your voice will not be heard.

STATE PARKS PARKING FEES - The Oklahoma Tourism and Recreation Department is implementing an $8 daily parking fee for Oklahomans and $10 for out-of-state visitors at 22 state parks. State Representative Harold Wright of Weatherford says he's not happy about the fee. The state says, locally, the fee will be implemented at both Foss and Ft. Cobb State Parks.

Oklahoma Development Authority say the 8 counties that they represent in Southwest Oklahoma have a census response rate of 45.69% as of June 14th, up from 40.5% the previous week. Roger Mills County raised its response rate from 27.7% to 40.1% in just one week. Custer County has a response rate of 51.1%, Beckham County 45%, and Washita County 46.7%.

WEATHERFORD LARGE GRASS FIRE - Fire departments from Weatherford and the surrounding area teamed up to battle a large grass fire that started along the edge of Cedar Canyon and spread to about a quarter mile from Cedar Canyon housing addition. Fire Chief Mike Karlin says the fire burned about 200 acres. Karlin says the fire appears to have started accidentally, as a result of some fencing work. Some evacuations occurred for a short time.

CLINTON RINKEL QUARANTINE - Clinton interim city manager Gene McCullough says Police Chief Paul Rinkel is currently quarantined from exposure to COVID-19. McCullough says day-to-day operations are being handled by Ray Hammonds. He says there will be internal testing of the Police Department for possible exposure.

CUSTER COUNTY APPORTIONMENT - Custer County Commissioners have approved the 2020 resale apportionment, a total of $300,000, that will go to municipalities and schools within the county, and also the county general fund. The monies are deemed as excess funds in the county resale property fund. $100,000 will go to the county general fund. Municipalities within the county will get a portion of $100,000 as will school districts within Custer County.

FORT COBB DROWNING - There was a drowning at Fort Cobb Lake in Caddo County. The Oklahoma Highway Patrol says the body of 42 year old Casey Satterlee of Edmond was located in the water, west of Bird Island, after he jumped in to try and rescue an 8 year old boy who fell from a flotation device. Authorities say the boy was able to swim safely to shore.

DEWEY COUNTY BURN BAN - Dewey County Commissioners implemented a burn ban. The action comes after fire crews used suppression efforts on the Jeffrey Ranch fire, southwest of Vici in Dewey County, that broke out June 11th. The Oklahoma Department of Forestry says the fire has burned at least 463 acres.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS FILING ENDS - One city council race has developed in the city of Clinton and two races are on tap for City Commissioner seats in the city of Weatherford after the three day municipal filing period. In Weatherford, there is a three-way race for City Commissioner in Ward 1 as Rick Miller is challenged by Terri Lockhart and Cameron Page. Ward 3 Commissioner Warren Goldmann is challenged by Lezley Bell. In the city of Clinton, Ward 4 Councilman Bobby Stewart is challenged by former Councilman Mustafa Sami. Mayor David Berrong and Ward 2 Councilman Ernie Dowdell did not receive opposition in their seats.

Higher Ground Thoughtful Prayer

Many of us struggle to pray thoughtfully and with fervency. Sometimes we feel we don't know the right words to use, or feel inadequate in expressing ourselves. So our prayers become more of a ritual, like listening to the National Anthem before a sporting event. The apostle Paul, when writing to churches while he was in prison, often expressed his heart's desire in the form of prayers. One of my favorites is found in Col. 1:9-12a. It reads as follows: "For this reason, since the day we heard about you, we have not stopped praying for you and asking God to fill you with the knowledge of his will through all spiritual wisdom and understanding. And we pray this in order that you may live a life worthy of the Lord and may please him in every way: bearing fruit in every good work, growing in the knowledge of God, being strengthened with all power according to his glorious might so that you may have great endurance and patience, and joyfully giving thanks to the Father."

Maybe this is more of a description of his prayer rather than the prayer itself, nonetheless it pictures clearly what Paul thought was primary. So we can assume that as he thought of that young church, struggling in the midst of paganism, he put forth what he thought was most important—that he felt God wanted to see happen in their hearts and lives. Let us look at some of the areas with which he was most concerned.

First of all, he prayed that they might know God's purpose or will. This would come through the presence and power of the Holy Spirit. It was spiritual wisdom and understanding they needed. This, in turn, would result in a life that was worthy of the powerful God they served and would be pleasing to Him. Out of that would come fruit through their good works, and they would grow in their knowledge of God. In this manner they would be strengthened with power. He was not thinking of power to run over others or arrogant power, but effectiveness as opposed to meaningless labor. This power was to come from God, not the wisdom of human effort. This power would bring patience and endurance. They were facing hostile attacks from those who would diminish the sufficiency of Christ so Paul knew they would need to endure and be patient, not giving in to pressure. Finally, they were to joyfully give thanks to the Father. There is no joy quite like the joy of obedience.

Do you see any connection between Paul's concern for the churches and our prayer concerns of today? Certainly, we would all like to know the mind and heart of God in our daily pilgrimage. We would like to know that our efforts and plans would be pleasing to God. Do we not desire fruitful labor that would lead to knowing God more intimately? Is our heart cry that our children would lead lives that count, that make a difference? Then pray that they would be strengthened with God's mighty power. And we would all desire greater patience and endurance during these hectic days. Meditate on this prayer of Paul and his prayers for other churches in Ephesians and Philippians. Your prayer life will become more fulfilling and exciting.

SWOSU Men's Golf has three named All-America Scholars

Heston Brown, Kason Cook and Gregor Weck of the SWOSU Men's Golf team are among the record-setting group of 614 collegiate golfers from Division I, II, III, NAIA and NJCAA who have been announced as Srixon/Cleveland Golf All-America Scholars. The teams were announced by the Golf Coaches Association of America (GCAA) on Wednesday.

Of the 614 honorees, 376 players were Division I selections, 99 in Division II, 108 in Division III, 18 from NAIA, and 12 from NJCAA. 2020 marks the first year in which sophomores are eligible for the award.

To be eligible for Srixon/Cleveland Golf All-America Scholar status an individual must be a sophomore, junior or senior academically in Division I, II, III, and NAIA, or receiving their Associate's Degree and in their last year of athletic eligibility in the NJCAA. In addition, they must have a stroke-average under 76.0 in Division I, 78.0 in Division II, 78.0 in NAIA and 79.0 in Division III, 77.0 in NJCAA, and maintain a minimum cumulative career grade-point average of 3.2. For 2019-20 only, they must participate in 40% of the team's competitive rounds.

"I am extremely proud of what each Heston, Kason and Gregor have accomplished this season, both in the classroom and on the golf course," SWOSU Head Golf Coach Brad Fleetwood said. "All three of them are great examples of what it means to be a student-athlete and fantastic representatives for our university."

Cook, a senior from Hydro, earns the award for the second consecutive season, joining previous recipients Marques Gomez (2016-17), Stefan Idstam (2016-17) and Wouter Myburgh (2012-13) as two-time award winners. Brown, a junior from Cordell, and Weck, a junior from Wiesbaden, Germany, both reached All-America Scholar status for the first time in their collegiate career.

The making of a good cattle drive

Kelly R. Kilhoffer
Oklahoma History Enthusiast

What is more iconic of the American West than images of Cowboys and horses all saddled up and steering cattle ever northward? For me, nothing. Cowboys and cowgirls are the epitome of hard work and struggle. From the early 1850's through the early 1900's, some 27 million head of cattle were herded through the West. They were moved out of Texas, driven north through Indian Territory to Kansas and sometimes beyond, until they arrived at the railheads where they would be loaded into cattle cars and railed east to a hungry and waiting nation. This may sound like a fairly simple job: over there are cattle, that way is North, go, and cattle will follow. Nothing is that simple with cattle. Let's take a look at one cow, be it a steer, bull, heifer, or calf. They have a good sized brain but they don't understand the human very well. Now let's add a few hundred or thousand more to the misunderstood group and what you have are thousands of horns, hooves, fly-swatting tails and one large manure factory trying to figure out what is going on in their disrupted world. Understandably, there is a lot of clatter going on. All cattle drives had their crew. The Trail Boss would make the plan, the Point would execute the plan, the Swingmen and the Flank kept the herd in line, and the Drag brought up the rear. Though not directly associated with the cattle, The Wrangler and the Chuckwagon were essential parts of the team as well. No one job was more important than another, all were essential for a successful drive.

"He (the Cowboy) lives in the lonely land, where might rivers twist in long reaches between the barren bluffs, where the prairies stretch out into billowy plains of waving grass, grit only by the blue horizon – plains across whose endless breadth he can steer his course for days and weeks, to see neither man to speak nor hill to break the level; where the glory and the burning splendor of sunsets kindle the blue vault of heaven, and the level brown earth till they merge together in an ocean of flaming fire." – "From Hunting Trips of a Ranchman" by Teddy Roosevelt.

The 'Big Chief' of every cattle drive was the Trail Boss. It was his decision who to hire, how many head could be handled, and where each man would be positioned on the drive. He also had to choose the time to start. Too early and there wouldn't be enough green grass for the cattle. Too late and he risked not having forage due to other herds being ahead of him. Then there is the weather to consider. For instance, Spring storms meant swollen rivers. One thing the Trail Boss kept in mind was that the Cimarron was notorious for swallowing cattle, horses and riders. The job of Trail Boss held a lot of headache. The Point's job was to lead the herd according to the plans laid out by the Trail Boss. His main concern was how to set the pace. Too slow and the cattle began to wander, too fast and the cattle lose valuable weight. If the path was too rocky, injury to the herd could occur. Horses with stone-bruised hooves move slowly and a severely injured animal had to be put down. He had to be aware of quicksand in the river bottoms, bogs around creeks, and keep his eyes peeled for trouble. Indians were rather peaceful on the trail, but they did often charge a toll of 7-10 head to cross their land. The Trail Boss would negotiate and both parties would move along in peace. There was Rustling but not like in the movies. The main job of the Swingmen was to keep the cattle bunched up. By letting the line of cattle 'belly out,' there would be the risk of a blowout and cattle running off in all directions. The Flank held a similar position at about 2/3 of the way back. Their job was to keep the herd from fanning out. (to be continued in next week's edition of "What's Under This Hat"...)

April WFRC Volunteer of the Month

Michael Slagell & Gabe Pennington are the Weatherford Food and Resource Center's April Volunteers of the month.

These two men have been the retail recovery volunteers every Wednesday since March. They drive the truck to retail recovery partners, Walmart Weatherford - E Eagle Rd and Weatherford Save-A-Lot, to pick up donations, bring those donations back to WFRC, then unload, weigh, sort, and put away the donations. Gabe lives just outside of Weatherford with his wife, Christa. They are foster parents to two wonderful, little boys. Gabe is an English teacher and wrestling coach. Reading and fishing are Gabe's hobbies. Michael and his wife, Faith, live at Thomas. They have 2 grown children. Michael is a retired science teacher. Model railroads and restoring old farm equipment are his hobbies. Mexican food is both Michael and Gabe's food of choice. Gabe's favorite thing about volunteering at Weatherford Food & Resource Center are the volunteers and staff. Michael's favorite thing about the Weatherford Food and Resource Center is the Christ-centered focus of service to those in need.
