Nine SWOSU Students Awarded NASA Oklahoma Space Grant Internships for Summer 2022

Nine Southwestern Oklahoma State University students have been awarded internships for the 2022 summer from the NASA Oklahoma Space Grant program.

According to Madeline Baugher, SWOSU's program coordinator for the NASA Oklahoma Space Grant, the nine students were selected by faculty in computer science and engineering technology and will work at NASA, two Oklahoma companies and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

Engineering technology students Kaitlyn Schrick of Frederick and Thomas Klassen of Lookeba-Sickles will work with NASA personnel from Langley Research Center on a Photo Archives Data Project. The photo archives span over 500,000 photo negatives and dates back to 1921. Throughout the last 100 years there have been various information systems implemented to capture / track information about the negatives in various formats. This project focuses on consolidating, curating and validating information gathered from the multitude of informational sources associated with these negatives.

Computer science student Oscar Garcia of Hydro-Eakly and engineering technology student Riley Smith of Arnett will spend their summer with Delaware Resources Group, a world-class company for aerospace defense training. The company is based in Oklahoma City and is headed by a SWOSU alum, Philip Busey.

Four students will work with ASRC Federal providing services to the Federal Aviation Administration at the Mike Monroney Aeronautical Center in Oklahoma City. Alexander Broyles of El Reno, Anthony Kelley of Oklahoma City (Westmoore), Garrett Parmer of Apache and Caleb Patton of Peryton (TX) are all computer science majors.

Engineering technology major Grayson Butcher of Elk City will intern with the FAA Flight Operations Simulation Laboratory. He will be involved in cutting-edge research at the Mike Monroney Aeronautical Center in Oklahoma City. Lab services enhance flight operations, standards, capacity and aviation safety to all branches of the federal government.

Inhofe, Rogers: Pentagon Not Doing Enough to Address Record-High Inflation

U.S. Sen. Jim Inhofe (R-Okla.) and U.S. Rep. Mike Rogers (R-Ala.), ranking members of the Senate and House Armed Services Committee, released the following statement after the Department of Defense responded to their March 17, 2022, letter. The letter requested detailed information on the effects of record inflation on the Department's budget.

"We appreciate the Department of Defense response to our March 17, 2022, letter, which sought to give us a better understanding of how the Department considers the effects of inflation in its budget process. Even though we're facing the worst inflation in 40 years under President Biden, it seems the Department of Defense has done little to address it.

"General Milley had it right when he told the House Armed Services Committee: the Department's estimations are 'obviously incorrect.' Even using the Office of Management and Budget's preferred metric for inflation (GDP chained price index), the fiscal year 2023 estimate is likely way off. The budget request revised 2022 inflation assumptions from 1.8 to 3.9 percent as measured by the GDP (chained) price index, but that metric is currently running at 6.4 percent though the first half of fiscal year 2022.

"Overall, we are concerned that the Department is not taking a proactive stance to mitigate the harmful effects of inflation. At the very least, they should be collecting necessary data, establishing a governance framework and conducting regular touchpoints with all stakeholders. In particular, it doesn't seem that the Department has a good grasp on how inflation is hurting our service members and their families — and how this is in turn impacting recruiting and retention. Likewise, we are concerned that the Department does not have an adequate understanding of the challenges facing the industrial base.

"Remember: At the end of the day, getting the inflation number right is important, but it's only part of the story. If we want to protect our country and meet national security needs, we need 3 to 5 percent real growth above inflation. We plan to accomplish this goal in this year's NDAA."

Three Bulldogs Named to All-GAC Softball Team

Jon Chidester

SWOSU Assistant AD/Media Relations

The Great American Conference announced the 2022 postseason softball awards on Wednesday, with Jewell Lee, Breanna Simmons, and Dani Carmo all earning all-conference recognition.

Lee was named to the second team, while Simmons and Carmo both garnered honorable mentions. It is the first time getting named all-conference for all three players.

Lee (Yukon, Okla.) led the Dawgs this season in many offensive categories including runs scored, doubles, triples, stolen bases, extra-base hits, slugging percentage, and on-base percentage. The senior finished with a .344 batting average, second highest on the team, and 19 extra-base hits including three home runs.

Simmons (Hendrix, Okla.) drove in a team high 27 runs this season and finished one home run shy (5) of the team lead. The senior finished as one of two players to start all 42 games for the Bulldogs. Simmons ranked second behind Lee in extra-base hits with eighth doubles, two triples, and five home runs.

Carmo (Placentia, Calif.) batted .266 this season as SWOSU's day in, day out catcher. She tied Lee for the team lead in doubles with 10 and was a tough out at the plate, striking out only 12 times all season – one shy of the team low. Carmo also threw out 14 base runners this season.

Provided

Jewell Lee (Yukon, OK), Breanna Simmons (Hendrix, OK), and Dani Carmo (Placentia, CA) we're all named to the ALL GAC Softball team for their efforts in the SWOSU Bulldog's 2022 softball season. The Lady Bulldogs went 11-22 in GAC conference play and 12-30 overall this past season.

SWOSU Women's Golf Season Ends at NCAA Central Regional

Jon Chidester

SWOSU Assistant AD/Media Relations

SWOSU Women's Golf concluded their season on Wednesday with a ninth-place finish at the NCAA Division II Central Regional.

Henderson State, who hosted the tournament at Hot Springs Country Club, won the region crown over the rest of the field. Central Missouri and Rogers State followed up in second and third respectively to also earn trips to the national championships.

Rebecca Lau was SWOSU's top golfer during the event. She carded the lowest round of any Lady Bulldog – a second-round 75 at three-over par.

Anna Marksa (first round) and Mikaela Rindermann (second round) also posted rounds under 80 in the tournament, both shooting scores of 78.

Coach Maher Steps Down as SWOSU Softball Head Coach

Provided

Kim Maher, pictured above, served as SWOSU softball Head Coach for 6 years. Maher resigned this past week, citing family obligations as her reason to depart.

Jon Chidester

SWOSU Assistant AD/Media Relations

Southwestern Oklahoma State University Athletic Director Todd Helton has announced the resignation of head softball coach Kim Maher.

"I would like to thank Coach Maher for her commitment to the softball program over these past six years," Helton said. "We at SWOSU wish her the best in all of her future endeavors."

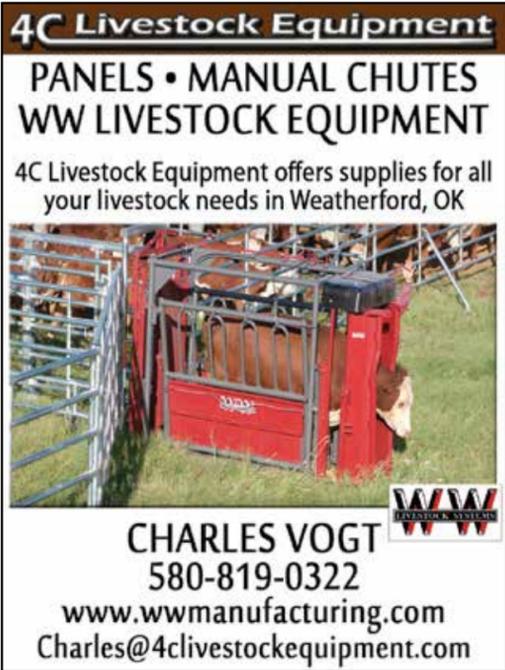

Maher was the Great American Conference Coach of the Year in 2019 after leading SWOSU to its first postseason berth since 2013. She has led the program since the 2017 season and just concluded her sixth year as head coach of the Dawgs. She has been a head coach for 14 years in total, with the first eight years of her career coming at Division I Purdue University from 2006-13.

"Due to family obligations, the time was right for me to retire from coaching and focus on those obligations," Maher said. "I want to thank the athletic department and the university for the opportunity to coach here over the past six years and wish nothing but success to the program for many years to come."

Further information related to the search concerning the new head softball coach is forthcoming.

Rodeo Concludes 2021-22 Regular Season Circuit; Five Qualify for CNFR

Jon Chidester
SWOSU Assistant AD/Media Relations

The SWOSU rodeo team wrapped up the 2021-22 circuit at the Panhandle State Rodeo over weekend where the women finished third and the men eighth.

With the quality finish, the women's team secured the Central Plains Women's Reserve Championship as the No. 2-ranked team in the region. In doing so, they qualify to compete at the College National Finals Rodeo (CNFR) in June. SWOSU will send Sadie Wolaver, Abby Hepper, Winter Williams, and Alli Masters to the national rodeo.

Wolaver was crowned the region champion in barrel racing following the completion of the OPSU Rodeo, while both Hepper (barrel racing) and Williams (breakaway) were named reserve champions.

Though the men's team did not collectively qualify, Marley Berger will compete at the CNFR after finishing the season atop of the region rankings in tie down roping.

The women's team had six top-3 finishes this season including wins at the Oklahoma State and Garden City Rodeos, while the men ended with three top-3 finishes and a win at the Fort Scott Rodeo.

The CNFR will be held in Casper, Wyoming June 12-18.

SWOSU GOLF

the Lady Dawgs gained some momentum with improvement in round two, but a final round with no player shooting below an 81 (+9) hindered SWOSU's chances at making a move on the leaderboard.

SWOSU Women's Golf finishes the year with a pair of All-GAC selections in Megan Brown and Mikaela Rindermann and continues their streak of regional appearances having now made the postseason field in each of the last nine years.

Mighty Prevailing Prayer

Jim Morrison

Last evening as I watched and listened as the National Day of Prayer Task Force hosted a 90 prayer special, I was touched as I heard one-after-another of God's faithful servants pour their hearts out for our nation. There was no political partisanship or critical dialog— simply men and women recognizing our great need for revival and repentance as a country and as individuals standing in the need of God's powerful presence in our broken world and in our lives as his people.

I hope your church didn't ignore it or play it lightly. It was an example, I believe, of what we need to hear more of in the local church. We get so caught up in our routine that the Holy Spirit doesn't get a chance to slip in something unique and powerful in our search for God's good pleasure. I wonder what God might do if each church had a band of prayer mates who met regularly to cry out to God for our young people, for our young families, for a powerful movement of God's Spirit in our Churches; for those who are living lives of rebellion and disobedience with little thought for eternity. I am reminded of the early church, after Peter and John preached in Solomon's colonnade in Acts 3. They were arrested and put in jail by the temple guard. They were warned to speak no longer of the resurrection and the name of Jesus. Peter and John responded in defense, "Whether it is right in God's sight to obey you rather than God. For we cannot help speaking about what we have seen and heard." The two apostles reported the threats to their own people and they "immediately raised their voices together in prayer." After their prayer found in Acts 4; "the place where they were meeting was shaken. And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and spoke the word of God boldly." So many of our people do not know how to cry out to God in brokenness. In our sophistication we pray polite prayers mostly for physical needs. Study the prayers of Paul and the Prophets and learn to pray the things that are on God's heart. The Apostle Paul had as his ambition that of "pleasing God." As you and I pray we would do well to first thoughtfully consider, "What does God want to see happen in this person's life, this situation, or this event." Then pray along those lines. Of course, we can only know the heart of God after we have saturated our hearts with His word. Wesley Duetel in his book, Mighty Prevailing Prayer shared his heart in a prayer that has become my guide. "O Lord, teach me to pray! Lord, teach me to pray! Fill my heart with your hunger, my eyes with your tears, my soul with your hatred of sin, my will with your strength to resist the Devil in prayer, my spirit with the mighty power of the Holy Spirit so I can prevail with you and for you with holy prevailing and mighty intercessions." Men's Golf Battles Rain, Finishes Strong at NCAA Tournament

SWOSU Assistant AD/Media Relations

SWOSU Men's Golf shot their lowest team score of the NCAA Super Regional in the tournament's final round on Saturday and finished 17th overall to conclude the season. The Dawgs battled rainy conditions throughout the first two rounds of the tournament but played in improved weather in round three.

Three Bulldogs carded their best scores of the tournament on Saturday. Gregor Weck shot even par while Conner Boydston shaved six strokes off his first two rounds and ended with a one-over 73. Lukas Hendricks shot a 77 (+5).

For the tournament, Weck ended at three-over par through three rounds to lead the team and cracked the top-10 on the leaderboard.

Boydston (232), Hendricks (233), and Anders Strand (234) finished one shot behind each other, while Gustavo Tineo (240) rounded the team out in the No. 5 spot.

Central Missouri won the Super Regional over Grand Valley State after the title was decided with a playoff. Fellow GAC competitor Arkansas Tech finished inside the top six and was the only team in the conference out of five in the field to qualify for the National Championships.

Grand Valley State's Charles Delong captured individual medalist honors after posting a 1-under par 215 (69-71-75) and edging a University of Indianapolis golfer in a one-hole playoff.

SWOSU Men's Golf finishes the year with a pair of All-GAC selections in Gregor Weck and Heston Brown and continues their streak of regional appearances having now made the postseason field in each of the last nine years.

SWOSU Employees Honored with 2021-2022 Brandy Awards

Southwestern Oklahoma State University students recently voted online for the annual Brandy Awards for outstanding staff, administrator and faculty of the year, the Dougherty Diversity & Inclusion Award and a new award—Advisor of the Year.

Winning Brandy Awards for 2021-22 were Sonya Roper, coordinator of the International Student Affairs office, staff award; SWOSU Vice President of Student Services/Associate Dean of the Everett Dobson School of Business & Technology Dr. Patsy Parker, administrator award; and Dr. Geo Kelly, assistant professor in the Everett Dobson School of Business & Technology, faculty award. Each Brandy Award winner received a traveling Brandy Award.

The Dougherty Award was named in the honor of the late Dean of Students Cindy Dougherty and the person selected is honored for their efforts of advocating for cultural diversity. The recipient Yuni Lonebear, is an instructor in the SWOSU School of Nursing & Allied Health.

The new award added this year is Advisor of the Year. The first-ever recipient is Heather Hummel, career exploration coordinator in the SWOSU Academic Support Center. The award is to honor the many advisors that help guide SWOSU students through their college education and future careers.

The SWOSU Dean of Students office also recently sponsored its annual Staff Appreciation Week. All full-time SWOSU staff and faculty received appreciation gifts from the Collegiate Activities Board (CAB) and the Dean of Students office.
