JR Head Appointed to Lead Bulldog Baseball Program

Jon Chidester
Assistant AD/Media Relations

SWOSU Athletic Director Todd Helton

announced 10-year SWOSU Baseball assistant coach JR Head has been named new leader of the program.

Head becomes the fifth head baseball coach in SWOSU's NCAA era and the eighth all-time.

"I am very pleased to announce JR Head as our next head baseball coach," said Helton. "Coach Head has a proven record of leadership, recruitment, and skill as a baseball coach. He has earned his chance to be a head coach and we are excited to see him display the vision and passion that we know will bring Bulldog baseball future success."

Head has spent the last decade as an assistant for the Bulldogs working alongside former head coach Zack Saunders, who recently stepped down after 13 seasons. He's held many titles as a SWOSU baseball coach, beginning as a volunteer in the fall of 2014 before becoming a graduate assistant from 2016-19. After obtaining his master's degree as a GA, he stayed on with the program as the lead assistant from 2019 through the conclusion of the 2024 season.

In total, including his two seasons as a student-athlete at SWOSU prior to coaching, he's called Weatherford his home for the last 12 years.

"I am very excited for this opportunity," exclaimed Head. "SWOSU is such a special place with so many great people and I'm very grateful to get to continue being a Bulldog. I look forward to building on the foundation of the program and competing in the Great American Conference – one of the best conferences in Division II."

As the lead assistant with a heavy role in the offense, Head has commanded a Bulldog lineup that has consistently landed at the top of the GAC in multiple areas. The Bulldogs have finished inside the top-three in team batting average in four of the past six seasons.

This year, the Dawgs ranked second in the league with a .304 average led by three All-GAC selections. Two of those three led the conference in an individual category, doubles and stolen bases, while the other was second on the doubles list just behind a SWOSU leader. All three finished inside the top-15 in individual batting average.

In 2021, Head helped tutor the program's first GAC Player of the Year, outfielder Alex Bedard, who went on to become an All-American – one of two Head has coached while at SWOSU.

In 2016, Head assisted with the Bulldogs as they reached new heights by winning the Great American Conference regular season championship and advanced to the NCAA Division II Central Region Championships. SWOSU won an NCAA era record 34 games and had eight players earn All-GAC recognition.

As a student-athlete, he played for SWOSU from 2013-14, starting 74 games in centerfield. He helped lead SWOSU to back-to-back conference tournament appearances and a second-place finish in the GAC in 2013. As a senior, Head was named an Honorable Mention All-GAC selection. He was also a two-time member on the GAC All-Academic team.

Before joining the Bulldogs, Head played two seasons at Northern Oklahoma College – Enid, where he was an All-Region and All-American selection in 2012 and a two-time National Gold Glove winner.

A native of Midwest City, Okla., Head earned his bachelor's degree in Parks & Recreation Management in 2014 and obtained a master's degree in Sports Management in 2018 – each from SWOSU. He is married to Chelsea (Bates) Head, a former member of the Lady Bulldog Basketball program. The two reside in Weatherford and have a two-year-old daughter, Halle.

"I would like to thank Dr. Lovell, Coach Helton, and the entire hiring committee for believing in

SWOSU Reach Higher Program Awards over $59,000 in Scholarships

J. Boone Clemmons
SWOSU Media Relations

The Reach Higher degree-finishing program at Southwestern Oklahoma State University (SWOSU) awarded over $59,000 in scholarships to 20 SWOSU students during the 2023-2024 academic year, including the 2024 summer semester. Over $54,000 came from a Finish Line scholarship funded by the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education. The remaining $5,000 came from Reach Higher Scholarships funded by the SWOSU Foundation.

The following students received scholarships:

- Leanne Hileman—Altus
- Rhonda Bennett—Anadarko
- Laurie Crawford—El Reno
- Kenneth Wilkins—Elk City
- Erin Wagner—Harrah
- Jamie Mundt—Hammon
- Carley Carney—Hydro
- Diana Juarez—Oklahoma City
- Amelia Maxwell—Oklahoma City
- Carly Nguyen—Oklahoma City
- Jessika Johnstone Miller—Ponca City
- Joshua Gossman—Moore
- Brad Jones—Mustang
- Michael Dropps—Mustang
- Bobbi Jo Rowland—Piedmont
- Kimbra Thomas—Weatherford
- Michael Nguyen—Weatherford
- Marissa Llamas—Wichita
- Christopher Hurtt—Yukon
- Josh Knight—Yukon

The Finish Line scholarship program provides funds for state system colleges and universities participating in the adult degree completion programs, targeting scholarships for adult students nearing degree completion. Reach Higher Flex Finish is designed for adults that have successfully completed some college coursework but have not yet finished a degree. The program results in a Bachelor of Science degree in Organizational Leadership with a focus in one of four areas: business, education, psychology, or technology.

“This program has already made a big impact that has been noticed at work and reflected positively in my recent yearly evaluation,” stated Leanne Hileman.

“It is also helping me start up the small business my family has encouraged me to start once I finally finish school. This program and degree will help me to become not only a better leader but a better person for my family.”

Not completing a degree the first time was a major disappointment for Brad Jones. “I was disappointed in myself and had a sense of unfulfillment in not completing a degree,” he expressed. “I’m gaining confidence in the skills I am learning in the courses and, hopefully, will earn a promotion in my workplace. I’m going to be able to show my son what can be accomplished with patience, perseverance, and hard work.”

Dr. Todd Wiggen, Coordinator of SWOSU’s Organizational Leadership program, said that the Reach Higher adult-friendly degree completion options through the Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education encourage adults who have earned some college credit to complete their degrees successfully. “This program really works for those adults who, for whatever reason, did not finish their degree the first time around. We offer flexible enrollment and online coursework. Students can set their own pace in completing their degree,” Wiggen said.

As the program coordinator and advisor, Wiggen provides personalized advising to ensure students finish in the most efficient way possible. In addition, the Reach Higher program is projected to have even greater scholarship funding for the 2024-2025 academic year. “I fully expect to be able to provide many more scholarships for both existing and new students in the program,” stated Wiggen.

The Reach Higher/Organizational Leadership program is currently accepting students for the 2024 fall semester at SWOSU. A Reconnect event on June 15 at the Stafford Air & Space Museum, providing an opportunity to speak with Reach Higher graduates, admissions personnel, and advisors. Additional information is available by contacting Wiggen at todd.wiggen@swosu.edu or at leadership@swosu.edu.

Summer to Remember

Jim Morrison

It’s summer time: mission trips, church camps, retreats, schools out! It’s a good time for kids and parents alike. But with the fun and games there are challenging moments for growth and maturity. Adults are exhorted to pray for the many events as they have great potential. The first question when planning to pray is to ask the question: what does God want to see happen in the lives of the participants? We need to be thoughtful in prayer, refraining from the usual cliches’ and platitudes. Maybe the following format will be of some help. One of the greatest needs in the development of our young people is that they have a strong foundation to stand firm against the culture of the day. They need power, not the kind of power that runs over people but the power to meet the challenges of their world. So, I made an acrostic of the word POWER to help me think Biblically in my prayer life. Perhaps this might be of help. Certainly, we don’t want weak young people but those who will know and serve the God of all power.

P.. Lord, I’m praying that the young people on mission or at camps will sense the power of the Holy Spirit in their conversations and responsibilities. You have promised to be with them but help them to sense your powerful presence. Protect them, not only from physically harm, but also from the spiritual attacks that the evil one can cause in producing disunity, tension, or attitude problems. Remind them that your power is made perfect in their weakness.

O..Father, open their eyes to the great needs of our world. Give them an obedient spirit and great openness to new opportunities. I pray for the leaders that they will be overcomers to work through any obstacles that might hinder.

W.. Lord, give them wisdom to make good decisions, to act wisely when confronted with difficult situations. May they walk before the people they serve in such a way that they would be drawn to the Savior. Above all may your will be done through their actions, responsibilities, and relationships. May they worship you through their actions as well as in services of worship.

E.. Lord, would you equip them with the energy and enthusiasm needed for each day. Equip them, Lord with your patience, your courage, your endurance and love to be used as instruments of righteousness in the midst of a troubled world. Enlarge their vision of the needs of the world and help them to see their place in this world to make a difference.

R.. Lord, reveal yourself to them in a fresh way. Revive hearts that may have grown cold. Give them an understanding of God’s call on their lives no matter what vocation they may choose. May they develop the strength to resist the call of the world on their lives. Give each of them a sense of responsibility to be agents of reconciliation in a divided world.\

Finally, as an add-on pray that Giod in Christ will become real to them. Lord, give them a teachable heart and a willingness to listen and obey.

In Jesus name, amen. To comment: 1580-302-1142 or jhm82@outlook.com

GPRMC Announces Lauren Celsor as 2024 Nurse of the Year

Great Plains Regional Medical Center (GPRMC) is proud to announce Lauren Celsor, CCRN, BSN, as the recipient of the 2024 Nurse of the Year Award. This prestigious recognition celebrates Lauren's outstanding contributions, unwavering dedication, and exceptional care in the Intensive Care Unit (ICU).

Lauren's peers have praised her extensive knowledge and commitment to educating new nurses. Her empathy and caring nature have made a significant impact on patients and their families, as well as her colleagues. Comments from nominees highlighted her ability to handle the most critical patients while taking time to teach others new skills, making the unit less daunting for newcomers.

"Lauren embodies excellence in nursing 1000%. She is the go-to person for starting IVs and is always confident and ambitious," said one of her colleagues. "Her patients receive 100% of her attention and care, and her smile and willingness to help are always present."

Patients and their families frequently express gratitude for Lauren's dedicated care. Her professionalism is surpassed only by her compassionate approach to nursing. Many nurses across the hospital look up to Lauren for guidance and inspiration, especially during challenging times.

Lauren's journey in nursing began with her graduation from Western Oklahoma State College in 2019 with an Associate's Degree in Nursing. She has since earned her Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) and is currently pursuing a Master's Degree in Nursing Education. Lauren is a member of the American Association of Critical-Care Nurses (AACN) and recently achieved her Critical Care Registered Nurse (CCRN) certification.

Lauren started her career as a Labor and Delivery nurse before transitioning to GPRMC in 2020 to train as an ICU nurse during the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. She has since become the main preceptor in the ICU, PICC certified, and holds all required certifications for her role, including leading the Medical Emergency Team (MET) and serving as House Supervisor when needed.

"Numerous nurses at GPRMC deserve this award; however, Lauren has been a shining star in a challenging year," said Corey Lively, CEO of GPRMC. "Her dedication to her patients, colleagues, and the field of nursing is truly exemplary. We are incredibly proud to honor her with the 2024 Nurse of the Year Award."

Oklahoma History: The Origins of Collegiate and Secondary Education in Oklahoma

Chase Wright
Staff Writer

After the Organic Act established the Oklahoma Territory, a legislative staff formed to help create a more systematic governing body. President Benjamin Harrison appointed George W. Steele as the new governor of the Oklahoma Territory, which would see tremendous advances in available public works/systems. The territory, with many fresh faces from the Land Run of 1889, was in dire need of schools and forms of higher education.

Governor Steele worked for seventeen months. During his time, he was a major advocate for public schools and universities. By his urging, the First Oklahoma Territorial legislature set up three collegiate schools in December of 1890. The three universities were the Norman Territorial University (which would later become the University of Oklahoma), the Oklahoma Agriculture and Mechanical College (that would go on to form Oklahoma State University), and the Central State Normal School in Edmond (University of Central Oklahoma).

For these collegiate level schools to be at the same level of the rest of the country, they would need knowledgeable and well-trained teachers. So, two additional “teacher training” schools were opened a few years later; these normal schools were dubbed Northwestern State Normal (Northwestern Oklahoma State University) in Alva which opened in 1897 and Southwestern State Normal (Southwestern Oklahoma State University) in Weatherford in 1901.

The legislation also established a college in Langston in 1897 for African Americans: Colored Agricultural and Normal University (Langston University). As part of the push for “equal” opportunity, a secondary institution, the University Preparatory School at Tonkawa, was created in 1901 to prep high school graduates for entry to the University of Oklahoma.

Quickly after the establishment of these colleges and secondary schools, Oklahoma Territory found itself preparing for statehood. Part of the proposed entry as a state to the United States would see the territory combine with the remaining portion of Indian Territory. Early discussions between the territories were heated due to the feeling of an educational imbalance as most of the college and university locations would be on the western side. As part of a compromise, “Oklahoma Territory offered to duplicate in the eastern part of the new state the number and types of institutions that existed in the west side” (Oklahoma History Society).

The agreement was signed, and the First Oklahoma Legislature established a list of schools for the east. The colleges created were the Oklahoma Industrial Institute and College for Girls (University of Science and Arts of Oklahoma) in Chickasha and the Oklahoma School for Mines and Metallurgy (Eastern Oklahoma State College) in Wilburton. Then, three normal institutes were opened: East Central State Normal (East Central University) in Ada, Northeastern State Normal (Northeastern State University) in Tahlequah, and Southeastern State Normal (Southeastern Oklahoma State University) in Durant. To match the preparatory school for OU, the secondary Eastern University Preparatory School was established in Claremore.

With the addition of these higher education schools, the legislation wanted to ensure more students had access to adequate preparation to any of the normal secondary or university options. So, the formation of six additional district schools were created in 1909 to get students ready for entry to Stillwater’s Oklahoma A&M and the other normal colleges. These six district schools were split evenly between the western and eastern halves of the state.

The 2024 ABCA/Rawlings NCAA Div. II All-Region teams and Regional Players of the Year have been announced in all eight regions. Jackson Syring, for a third time this award season, found himself as a Second Team All-Central Region selection.

Syring had previously been named all-region from the NCBWA and D2CCA and completes the trifecta for region recognition with his latest nod from the ABCA. He becomes the eighth Bulldog to earn All-Region honors from the ABCA in SWOSU's NCAA era. He led the team in batting average, hits, triples, RBIs, slugging percentage, hit by pitches, and on-base percentage. Syring's .394 batting average and 19 doubles both ranked second in the GAC, while his 57 RBIs finished as the fifth most in the league.

The ABCA All-America team was first recognized in 1949 and now includes nine divisions: NCAA Divisions I, II and III, NAIA, NJCAA Divisions I, II and III, Pacific Association Division, and high school. ABCA/Rawlings Gold Glove teams were first recognized in 2007.

About the ABCA:
 Founded in 1945, the American Baseball Coaches Association is the primary professional organization for baseball coaches at the amateur level. Its over 15,000 members represent all 50 states and 41 countries. Since its initial meeting of 27 college baseball coaches in June 1945, Association membership has broadened to include nine divisions: NCAA Division I, II and III, NAIA, NJCAA, Pacific Association Division, High School, Youth and Travel.

Four from SWOSU Softball Named CSC Academic All-District

Jon Chidester
 Assistant AD/Media Relations

Four student-athletes from SWOSU Softball have been named College Sports Communicators (CSC) Academic All-District selections.

Bulldogs who earned academic recognition include Dani Carmo, Chesnie Hewitt, Jady Hook, and Maddie Rahon. Both Carmo and Rahon earn the award for a second straight year.

Academic All-District selections were based on combined academic and athletic qualifications. Student-athletes must compete in 90 percent of the institution's games/contests played or must start in at least 66 percent of the institution's games/contests. In addition to the athletic qualifications, student-athletes must also hold a minimum of a 3.50 cumulative GPA or higher and be at least a sophomore. A maximum of five student-athletes can be selected per school.

The 2023-24 Academic All-District® Softball Teams, selected by College Sports Communicators, recognize the nation's top student-athletes for their combined performances on the diamond and in the classroom. The CSC Academic All-America® program separately recognizes honorees in four divisions — NCAA Division I, NCAA Division II, NCAA Division III and NAIA.

Baseball, track & field/cross country, and golf will all be announced through the month of June.
